Portugal—State Paper.

The necessary orders having been issued for enabling the Portuguese Commissary at Paris to receive the first three quarters of the quota assigned to Portugal in the contributions imposed on France by the Powers which signed the last Treaty of Paris it appears to us that the public may wish to be informed of the principles upon which the Portuguese Plenipotentiaries founded the right on which they laid claim to the contribution—a claim which was disputed to them on account of Portugal not having entered the campaign with their contingent against France, that being the basis on which the contribution was divided among the other Powers These principles may be very easily deduced from the following

NOTE.

"The undersigned Plenipotentiaries of his Royal Highness the prince Regent of Portugal and the Brazils, have received the official communication which their Highnesses and Excellencies the Ministers of the Cabinets of Austria, Russia, Great Britain and Prussa, did them the honor to address to them under date of the 19th instant.

"The undersigned cannot but approve of the basis of the arrangement which the four Powers above named deem proper to propose to the government of his Most Christian Majesty, and in which they appear to have combined, as far as circumstances will admit, the essential object of the coalition, viz the re-establishment of the tranquility of Europe on solid foundation, with the guarantee of the just indemnities claimed by all states which took part in the alliance.

"The undersigned thank the Ministers of Austria, Russia, Great Britain and Prussia, for the assurance which they give them of communicating the answer of the French government, and the ulterior resolutions to which it may lead for the purpose of putting them in a capacity to contribute, according to the spirit of treaties, to the final result of the negotiation. The four powers who signed the Treaty of Alliance of the 25th of March, will surely no loose sight of the fact, that Portugal not only acceded by a formal treaty to that alliance, but also that, in quality of signing party and of guarantee of the execution of the treaties of Paris and Vienna, it ought doubtless to come in as one of the principal parties in every arrangement which shall rectify any of the articles of the said treaties.

"The undersigned, convinced of the momentous nature of existing circumstances, and of the importance which the Powers must attach to the speedy conclusion of the negotiation will abstain from impeding its progress by any new claim, on their part, as against France; but thinking that the pecuniary sacrifices to be exacted of that power should be destined not only to pay the expenses of the war, but also to reimburse each of the Allied powers for the preparations and expenses which recent events have caused, they claim on behalf of his Royal Highness the Prince Regent of Portugal, the right of participating in the contribution which shall be imposed on France, and in this view they rely on the justice and impartiality of the High Powers to which they address their reclamations.

"The undersigned, the moment the escape of Napoleon Bonaparte was known at Vienna, interpreting the intentions of their august Sovereign, and convinced of the moral force which the close and immediate union of all the Powers would produce, signed without hesitation, the declarations of the 13th of March & the 12th of May, and by consequence from that moment, in the name of their Court, came under engagements most solemn. Constantly following the same line of conduct, the undersigned were the first who formally acceeded to the Treaty of Alliance of the 25th of March; they immediately communicated it to the Regency of Portugal, which forthwith made all the necessary preparations for putting the army on a war footing; and if that army had not entered the field at the moment when the hostilities were terminated, this could only be ascribed to the signal victory which so suddenly put an end to the war, and to the distance at which the Sovereign of Portugal is placed without whose sanction it was evidentally impossible that a delegated government could take upon itself the responsibility of causing troops to march out of the kingdom in execution of a treaty not yet ratified This circumstance, then cannot annul or affect in any degree the right which the undersigned lay claim to—that of being considered and treated like all the other members of the alliance; inasmuch as Portugal has been ready on her side to perform all that could be legitimately expected of her; and the expenses occasioned by the preparations for war, and without the aid of any foreign subsidy, should be repaid to her out of the mass destined for those indemnities.

"If it were wished to adopt the basis of not admitting to participation in the contribution any but the armies which took an active part in the war this principle would lead a great deal too far Each of the Allied powers had unquestionably fulfilled the duties which it imposed on itself, and contributed more or less actively, according to its position, to the happy issue of that war; but at the same time the Russian, Austrian, and Sardinian, &c. armies, were unable to reach the theatre of war until after its result was decided; the Danish contingent had scarcely passed its own frontiers when hostilities ceased. Portugal placed politically and geographically in a position still more distant, could not in these circumstances but come up the last But, unquestionably, had the chance of the war been unfavorable, she would have seen herself, in pursuance, of her engagements, exposed to undergo all its inconveniences, without being entitled to complain or to plead her involuntary inactivity Is it not just that, as in this case she would have had her share of the misfortunes, she should now claim that of the indemnities which accrue to her.

"The undersigned have hitherto confined themselves to considering the question under the point of view of the late war, because they suppose that it may have been traced out as a rule not to admit of other reclamations. Would it not be proper however, to pay some regard in respect to Portugal, to events anterior to the year 1815, and if, setting aside examples, it is wished to lay it down as a principle that the indemnities demanded of France have no other object but to defray the expences of the last war, would it not be just at least that the objections that may be made to the claims of Portugal in this view should be balanced by so many other incontestible reasons which she might allege in her own behalf.

"France extorted from Portugal in the years 1801 and 1802, the sum of forty millions of francs, for granting her treaties of peace, which she violated immediately afterwards. The French armies three times invaded Portugal and committed there the devastations and horrors which are known to all the world. The Portuguese nation supported during six years, a war disproportioned to its force for its own independence and that of Europe. At the close of that war the Portuguese army found itself in the heart of France, having constantly shared in all the fortunes of the British army. And yet, at the conclusion of peace, his Royal Highness the Prince Regent of Portugal was almost the only one of the allies who received no increase of territory, who obtained no indemnity, no advantage and saw himself even so situated as to be obliged to restore to France the colony of Cayenne, which for so many reasons he might have wished to retain.

"Such are some of the titles which Portugal could allege in her own behalf; and the undersigned flatter themselves that the august sovereigns now assembled at Paris will appreciate all their validity and will feel how very hard it would be to exclude Portugal from any share of the contributions demanded of France. The advantage, besides, which would result to the other powers from this exclusion would be very inconsiderable; for by admitting to this participation only the powers which formerly acceded to the treaty of the 26th of March, and who have troops in France the exclusion would be confined to Portugal and Denmark.

"The undersigned avail themselves of this opportunity to renew to their Highnesses and Excellencies the assurances of their high consideration.

Count de Palmella,
D Joaquim Lobo De Silveira
Paris, Sept. 28, 1815."

NASSAU, N. P Jan 11.

Address to Mariners passing through the Guiph of Florida.

Having observed in the course of long experience, that several masters of vessels who had the misfortune to be cast away on the Martyrs and the Coast of Florida, ignorant of the existence of any settlement at Cape Florida, have attempted to proceed to the Northward in their boats, deprived of every assistance. I feel it incumbent upon me to inform such as may hereafter experience a like misfortune, that if they pass to the North side of Key Biscaine, they will find the entrance of Boca Ratones, through which they can safely go with their boats and they will see the houses in front, on the main land.

In case of shipwreck to the northward of Boca Ratone, at the distance of two miles therefrom, they will perceive Mangroves thinly scattered, from whence the houses may be seen; and in that situation, on making a signal with fire, or otherwise, they will obtain assistance.

If it should happen to the southward of New River they may proceed southwardly along the beach, where they will meet, every four miles, with posts, fixed in the ground on which is an in inscription, in English French and Spanish, informing where wells of fresh water have been purposely dug.

An Inhabitant of Cape Florida.

June 15—It is stated that the commander of the Consulado armed ship, which brought up to Havana, a part of the money from the wreck of H M S Fly, as mentioned in a preceding Gazette, took it forcibly from under the charge of capt. Roberts, alleging that it had been illegally shipped at Vera Cruz The money, however, was lodged with the Consulado, who it is reported, have expressed their disprobation of their officer and their readiness to deliver it up to capt. Roberts, or to his order, fearful probably of its seizure resulting into an affair between the two nations. Capt Roberts is said to have presented his sword to the Spanish commander when he found him determined to take the money, but this was declined. The defenceless state in which captain Roberts was placed, put resistance to the aggression out of his power.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We have received a communication from an unknown correspondent, on the subject of the radical change contemplated to be made at the next election, in the Common Council of Alexandria. It is held under advisement, and will probably appear in a day or two.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

February 13th, 1817.

Yesterday the two Houses of Congress assembled in the House of Representatives, counted the votes given by the Electors for President & Vice-President, according to the usual forms: when there appeared

	James Monroe, P.	D. D Tompkins, V P.	Rufus King, P.	J. E. Howard, V. P.	Mr. Harper, V P

So JAMES MONROE is elected President and DANIEL D. TOMPKINS Vice President of the United States, after the 4th March 1817.

The ceremony was interrupted by Mr. Taylor of New-York, with a speech and resolution to the effect that "the votes from Indiana, having been given before that territory was admitted, were illegal and ought not to be counted.' The Senate went back to their own room while this portent was discussed—and it then being at once manifest, that the Senate had received a Senator, and the House of Representatives a Representative from Louisiana, and that by the very terms of the law, the people of Indiana having complied with the conditions prescribed by that act, this new state had instantly started into existence; the resolution was quashed by an almost unanimous voice of indefinite postponement.

MR SNOWDEN,

The expediency of adopting measures, to obtain a recession of that part of the District of Columbia, south of the Potomac, to the state of Virginia, has been formally submitted in your paper of the 11th inst. to the consideration of the citizens of Alexandria county. It is sincerely hoped, the subject will receive that prompt and earnest attention, to which its importance entitles it. It is certainly time for us to inquire into the conduct of those who have assumed, the management of our affairs, and to devise the means of escape from the dangers of their mis-rule. We may justly complain that we are taxed, without being represented; that we are wrongfully and injuriously restricted in the right of appeal; that the interests of this part of the District are postponed or made subservient to the views and interests of the favorites in Washington and Georgetown; that our petitions are disregarded; our importance underrated, and an unpardonable indifference uniformly manifested by Congress to our wishes and to our welfare.—These are wrongs which surely do require redress, & that redress, it is humbly conceived is within our power. Let us petition to be abandoned altogether by our careless step-mother, and restored to our natural mother. The permission will, it is believed, be readily granted, and we shall without doubt, be as readily received by our native state. MANY.

COMMUNICATION.

Fellow-Citizens, friends of order and virtuous habits, you who regard the welfare of youth, many of whom have of late been drawn to the scenes of Gambling which have for months disgraced our town and wrung with agony the hearts of tender parents,—rise up and shew by your conduct, that you utterly abhor these practices, that you will not yield to those who cannot bear the restraint of wholesome laws. Were I disposed I could point you to the victim of this pernicious vice: I could lead you to the inconsiderate husband returning at day light from the shambles of the gambler, pennyless, to the wife who has spent sleepless nights of anxiety, to the children needing all the honest earnings of the father, for their daily comfort and support. But I forbear. It is for endeavoring to prevent scenes of this sort, that the council are denounced and a radical change is to be made in the police of the town.

The writer of these remarks is not a member of the council, nor wishes nor will accept of any office in the corporation. He is a friend to good order, wholesome laws, and a well regulated police. His sole desire is to promote the substantial welfare of the place of his nativity and residence

GOOD ORDER.

THE FEMALE EPISCOPAL BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

Until the present year, the charitable contributions of the town for the relief of the poor, have been disbursed by a society of gentlemen, who kindly undertook this duty. They divided the town into districts, assigning each portion to an individual, whose duty it became, to inspect the cases and circumstances of the poor within his district, and to report them to every weekly meeting of the board, when, the sum deemed necessary by the whole was obtained. This arrangement, tested by the experience of several years, and by the general satisfaction which it afforded to all classes, had superceded the necessity of constituting any new society for that purpose. The female part of society, to which in other towns this task was usually assigned, in the present case felt relieved from any responsibility, and was content to forego the pleasure of their private feelings, to the consideration that the comfort of the poor was in better hands.

But circumstances have changed. Other societies were formed, and their existence struck at the root of the old society, inasmuch as the operations of the one, must come, necessarily, in collision with, and much embarrass the other.—In this state of things the reasons which had previously prevented the constitution of a female society on a general plan, were done away, and it became necessary indeed, to devise some method of remedying the evil of the dissolution of the old society, and providing for the claims which would be made by the poor upon those parts of the community which had, thus far, organized no plan for that purpose. With this view a number of the female members of Christ Church and St Paul's Congregations resolved themselves into a society under the title of "The Female Episcopal Benevolent Society of Alexandria." The object of this Society, as expressed in the constitution is to relieve the temporal and spiritual wants of the poor of every denomination. It was placed under the direction of a 1st. Directress, 2d. Directress, Treasurer, and 24 managers, taken equally, from each congregation. It modeled itself as nearly as possible after the old society, and divided the town into nearly twelve equal portions, assigning each division to two members, whose duty it was to visit in person the poor in their district, to report to every weekly meeting of the board and to obtain such sum as the vote of the board might think proper to appropriate.

These several duties have been faithfully performed; no inclemencies of weather, no difficulty or discouragement has been able to check their zeal and diligence. They have purchased and delivered, wood, blankets and provisions. They have nursed the sick, procured for them medicine, read to them the scriptures and done all in their power to promote their comfort. With all the economy and caution which they have been able to adopt, they have already expended the sum of five hundred dollars. But when the extreme severity of the season and of the times is considered, and when it is remembered that they have had the whole of the poor in the town under their notice, this sum will not appear very considerable. The manner in which they have administered relief is not such indeed, as to give the society eclat before the world. They cannot shew in parade to the public, four or five hundred wretched, hungry and naked souls, whom they have fed and warmed, and nourished. Food, fuel and blankets have been selected as being essential to the existence of these poor creatures; and although they furnish not the materials for fabricating a monument "to be seen of men"; yet it is hoped, they present a memorial, no less on that account acceptable, before God, whose reward is in Heaven.

Those who wish to assist the society with further means are requested to lodge their donations with Mrs. Eliza Potts, first Directress, or Miss Mary Mandeville, Treasurer.

Dr. JOHN RICHARDS has been elected a Director in the Mechanics' Bank of Alexandria, in the place of Joseph Dean, elected a Director in the Branch Bank of the U. States at Washington.

Time, tho' it sometimes sanctions error, often produces long concealed, or doubted truths. Twenty years ago there were men who asserted, and fools who believed the assertion made, supported and encouraged, under the influence of Jefferson, Madison, Giles, Munroe &c. that Timothy Pickering was, in public and in private life, a base man. Time compelled Giles, who thought there were a thousand men in the United States who would fill the office of President as well as Washington, to acknowledge in the Senate of the U. S. that in most instances in which he had differed from that immortal man he had since found himself in an error. For many years the name of Hamilton was a mark for democratic abuse from every democratic press in the Union; time has silenced all his accusers.

It must have been highly gratifying to Mr. Pickering, some days since, to have heard the following from the lips of so celebrated a man as Mr. Randolph.

"If the gentlemen would take it, (said Mr. R.) I would give him what little I have, to have inscribed on my tomb as he may on his—Here lies the man who enjoyed the confidence of Washington and the enmity of his successor!"

The true character of Mr. Pickering even before he sinks into the grave, may yet be acknowledged by the democrats. Perhaps the most degrading of all epitaphs is that declaring that the departed never had an enemy. Which ought to be the greater consolation; which the strongest testimony of worth; to have it said that a man had the confidence of Washington, or the enmity of Monticello's Sage? If a man had both in a high degree, there is proof positive of greatness and goodness. Richmond Pat.

Virginia Legislature.

The Convention bill, not yet taken up in the Senate. The select committee to whom it was referred, have reported by way of amendment, almost entirely a new bill. The feature of a limited Convention is still recognized. The following, the 8th section, will speak for itself:

Be it further enacted. That the said Convention thus organized, shall have full power and authority to amend the constitution of the state, by reforming the representation in the House of Delegates and the senate, so as to give and preserve, as far as practicable to the people of every part of the common wealth, their just and proper share of political power in each branch of the Legislature: and so to amend the said constitution, as to provide such general regulation as may be necessary and proper for securing at all times to the people of every part of the commonwealth, as far as practicable an exemption from any undue proportion of the burthen of public taxes, provided, however, that the powers hereby given to the said convention shall not be so construed, as to authorize any change in the right of suffrage, in the election of members of either house of the general assembly as now regulated by the constitution or any increase or diminution of the number of Senators now required by the constitution, or any increase or diminution of the period of service, either of the delegates or Senators in the general assembly save only such occasional diminution of the period of service of the senators as may be found convenient for equalizing the representation in the senate, from time to time.

The substitute has been printed and will probably be taken up, this day in the senate.

New-York, Feb. 10.

It is but an act of justice to a gallant young officer, to give publicity to the following extract of a letter, dated Gibraltar Bay, Nov. 20, 1816:

"I cannot omit to notice an occurence which I am sure will have a tendency to increase the esteem which I am aware you already possess for Lieut. Stringham.—It was in one of those tremendous squalls which eddy round the rock of Gibraltar, (whose height is 1452 feet) forms whirlpools on the water, and carries up the spray in eddying circles far above its summit, that a French vessel, endeavoring to make the anchorage of Algesiras, was overtaken and instantly upset. Her danger was extreme, and unless speedily relieved, the crew, who had got upon her bottom, must perish, as she was fast foundering. Several English and Dutch men of war lay nearer to her by several miles than we did, and in snug moorings, while we were dragging our anchors, and deliberating on the necessity of getting under weigh. Perceiving that no assistance was likely to be rendered to the unfortunates by those around them, Lieutenant Stringham volunteered to relieve them; and with an intrepidity and perseverance that does him honor, succeeded in taking them from the wreck, long before the boats which followed his example from the English and Dutch, had pulled half the distance to her. His good fortune, however failed him before he reached the beach of Algesiras, and his boat was capsized, and one of his crew and a Frenchman perished—a hard fate, when tempted from motives so humane. Lieut. Stringham, himself, barely escaped, having been driven to the shore in a state of insensibility, and picked up on the beach by the Spaniards. Yet the Gibraltar papers, the next day, claimed the merit of this transaction for the boats of the Minden, which were probably not within half a mile of the wreck at the critical moment."

The next Govevnor.—The title of the article is meant to be expressed with precision, we therefore say, the next not our next governor, for really we neither feel or take any interest in the question. We however, may be permitted for our amusement to look upon what is going forward; we have the authority of a proverb for this. We cast a glance, therefore, at the Albany papers once in a while and look at the state of affairs there. We are much pleased, among other things with the essays that so constantly adorn the Register in favor of Mr. Clinton, and are compelled to confess, not only that they are neither few nor small, but that they astonish as much by the novelty as by the brilliancy, aptness and weight of the metaphors with which they abound. For example, one writer after exhausting topics of praise, concludes by declaring that Mr. Clinton's head is the very "Light House of knowledge." his eyes, I presume, are the lanthorns, that shine for the guidance of the benighted mariner, his skull furnishes oil, and his nostrils are the flues to carry off the smoke. This, sir, is only completing the metaphor. What a capital head for a governor! it is equal to the brazen head of Friar Bacon. Surely such a head will look down all opposition, and the "nefarious black hearted league" (as they are called) of the sons of Tamany, had better beware how they shew their disapprobation.

If it should happen to the southward of New River they may proceed southwardly along the beach, where they will meet, every four or five miles, with posts, fixed in the ground on which is an inscription, in English French and Spanish, informing where wells of fresh water have been purposely dug.

An Inhabitant of Cape Florida.

June, 15.—It is stated that the Consulado armed brig, which brought up to Havana, a part of the money from the wreck of H M S Fly, as mentioned in a preceding Gazette, took it forcibly from under the charge of capt. Roberts, alleging that it had been illegally shipped at Vera Cruz. The money, however, was lodged with the Consulado, who it is reported, have expressed their disapprobation of the offer and their readiness to deliver it up to capt. Roberts, or to his order, fearful probably of its hindering seizure resulting into an affair between the two nations. Capt Roberts is said to have presented his sword to the Spanish commander when he found him determined to take the money, but this was declined. The defenceless state is which captain Roberts was placed, put resistance to the aggression out of his power.

JAMES KENNEDY & SON,

BOOKSELLERS, KING STREET,

Have just received from LEE'S PATENT MEDICINE Store. No. 46 Maiden Lane, N. York,

A FRESH SUPPLY

Of the following genuine Medicines.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills.

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor s feelings, in several parts of the West Indies, and the Southern & Middle States, particularly in N. York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburg, Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston, and Savannah. The testimony of a number of persons at each of the above places can be adduced, who have reason to believe, that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives, when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy, founded on mere assertion.

It s not, indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills, taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative; and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to cary off superfluous bile & prevent its morbid secretions—to restore & amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which is so often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficatious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions orfoulness in their stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedly is its being suited to every age and perfectly in It contains nothing but what is constitutionnocent, and is also mild in its operation, cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body; but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious n carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS.

And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body, are chiefly of four kinds, viz.—The Teres, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tænia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long, and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite. sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy & fœtid stools; vomitiug; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever, with small and irregular pulse; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face oated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success, in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent "the vomiting and purging of chint"—a dreadful disorder, which annually destroys the hand the infan part of our citizens likewise th wildest and m ce fatal emedy known, and has restored to the alth and strength a great number who in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint.
